

Resources for Marshall Parents and Students

The University of Southern California is a large community that has a myriad of resources to support our students with choices for healthy living and support for their academic excellence. Below is a list of additional information and resources for parents and students.

For students, check with your student when they might be need of some extra attention or assistance.

Marshall peer-to-peer tutoring services for students: <http://students.marshall.usc.edu/undergrad/marshall-peer-tutoring-program/>

Counseling services available: <http://engemannshc.usc.edu/counseling/parent-information/>

Academic support: <http://sait.usc.edu/academicsupport/index.html>

For parents, getting to know where to find resources and what types of things are available for your student can be helpful. Below is a list of various resources and information to assist you in learning about USC.

Update your contact information and address with Marshall: thenetwork.usc.edu

Sign up for Trojan Alerts: <http://dps.usc.edu/services/trojans-alerts/>

Be aware of ongoing Trojan Safety initiatives: <http://safety.usc.edu/>

Subscribe to USC's award-winning, student-run newspaper The Daily Trojan at: dailytrojan.com

Get to know the USC Engemann Student Health Center and what services are available for your student: <https://engemannshc.usc.edu/make-an-appointment/>

Understanding FERPA: What we can and cannot tell you: <http://arr.usc.edu/records/ferpa/parents.html>

Send a care package to your student: <http://www.ocm.com/sca/carepackages>

Learn about campus life and the USC residential colleges: <https://resed.usc.edu/residential-colleges/>

Download the USC Parent Handbook: <http://orientation.usc.edu/videos-and-publications/#/2>

Learn about Marshall's Academic Advisors: <https://www.marshall.usc.edu/current-students/academic-advising>

Share USC most popular food-centered apps and services: EnvoyNow, Postmates, Munchery, GrubHub, Eat24, Caviar, and TapinGo

USC Marshall Partners is the giving society for the USC Marshall School of Business and the Leventhal School of Accounting.