USC MARSHALL SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

The Master of Science in Finance program at USC Marshall continues to thrive. The Class of 2017 leveraged the program's world-class education and professional development to great effect, accessing unparalleled resources to secure coveted positions nationwide. Across industries and job functions, program alumni are sought after by renowned financial firms here in Southern California and around the country. Their success puts them on a path of high achievement and adds luster to the program's stellar reputation as a destination for top global talent. As the program's renown grows, so too does the number of extraordinary opportunities for future cohorts, who will be able to use the MS in Finance as a launching pad to lasting career fulfillment.

“ I applied to USC mainly because of the Trojan Family Network. Coming to USC you really experience the sense of family. USC gives you a holistic experience. It is not only what you learn in class or read about in text books but it is the connection that you have with your friends, classmates, professors and the directors of the program as well. ”
