Dear Students,

This Fall will be unlike any other time in the 100-year history of the Marshall School of Business. We have created a Fall 2020 at Marshall page where you will find information about our approach to teaching and learning during the Fall semester, leveraging our world leading expertise in online pedagogy. I also encourage you to visit the USC Fall 2020 site that has additional information about student life.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my personal enthusiasm for two brand-new courses—If Not You, Who? The Future of Leadership; and If Not Now, When? The Future of Capitalism. We designed these courses to bring you the very best of the Marshall School to help you not only understand the dizzyingly complex and rapidly changing world all around us but also to develop your own strategies for contributing to a better future for us all. Special guests including USC President Carol Folt and Executive Chairman of United Airlines, Marshall alumnus and USC trustee, Oscar Munoz, will be featured in conversation with me and the course leaders. We encourage you to consider adding one of these exciting courses to your schedule.

As we all look forward to the day we can be back on campus, we continue to work on ensuring you have an excellent educational experience during Fall. In the meantime, I wish you and your loved ones happiness and health as we begin the new semester.

Sincerely,

Geoff Garrett
Dean
