What is a Roundtable event?

- Roundtables are our most popular events, attended by a wide range of organizations. Pre-assigned small student groups will rotate every twenty minutes, meeting employer representatives as your assigned table(s). Candidates are assigned to rotations based on the student's preferred interest in the roles offered by your organization. The Open Networking Reception at the conclusion provides additional opportunities to meet students not assigned during the formal rotations.

- Due to student popularity, Roundtables are the best way for your organization to generate student interest, making earliest possible connections in the recruiting season. Students will be assigned to your table rotations based on their expressed interest in the roles offered by your firm. You will receive the rotation assignment list along with the student resumes before the event. This interactive format enables employers to attract, engage and expedite continued post-event recruiting efforts with selected candidates.

What do I need to provide to participate?
